

Loving Tan – A Mental Aura Color

(Loving tan is a rich colored tan accompanied by a crimson red that encircles a person's body)

- Friendly, curious, outgoing, talkative, childlike, optimistic, easily distractible people
- Can be frenetically energetic, forgetful and scattered with too many irons in the fire
- They are abstract thinkers adept at perceiving all of the pieces of a puzzle at once
- Tend not to function on linear time like most people; they have difficulty paying attention to schedules, clocks, and calendars
- When talking they often go off on tangents; their thinking is somewhat discombobulated
- Very sensitive; need to be liked by others; tend to get feelings hurt easily
- When secure they are very sociable; when insecure they isolate themselves
- Understand details to be taken care of but have no concept of following any order of priority
- Eager and curious learners open to the new and innovative; love exchanging ideas and exploring new perspectives
- With their abstract way of thinking they can easily see numerous solutions to any problem
- More open-minded, non-judgmental and flexible than other Tans (except possibly Nurturing Tan)
- Prefer jobs that allow them to work randomly rather than sequentially
- Can create disorder and confusion around themselves when scattering their energy
- Often feel unappreciated and misunderstood because of their chaotic lifestyle
- Often misplace or lose their possessions and can't remember where they put things
- Have a great love for humanity and are very accepting of all people
- Have many acquaintances but very few close friends
- Tend to struggle to maintain an intimate relationship because they don't open up emotionally very easily and because of their frenetic, disorganized lifestyle
- Tend to theorize emotions rather than feeling them (they are a mental aura color after all)
- They have an incredible capacity to store random bits of factual information
- Tend to be cheerful, optimistic, fun-loving parents but also undependable and undisciplinatory
- Parents of Loving Tan children can empower them by helping them follow simple schedules
- Loving Tan is a rare aura color
- Famous examples: I don't know any real-life famous Loving Tans but Aunt Clara (played by Marion Lorne), the lovable, bumbling, forgetful witch on the TV show Bewitched would be a good example.

The Life Purpose of someone with the primary color of Loving Tan is to do what they do naturally – see numerous solutions to any problem with their optimistic, open-minded, abstract way of thinking and their incredible capacity to remember factual information.

The Basic Fear of someone with the primary color of Loving Tan is the fear of being rejected for being too erratic, disorganized, and incapable of focusing.

Loving Tans truly love people and they do well when they have an opportunity to be out in the community servicing the needs of others. They are drawn to work that allows them to do a variety of tasks in any order that they choose. They need plenty of time and freedom to complete assigned work and should not be expected to follow too structured a schedule. They do well in occupations where they have personal autonomy and a minimum of supervision. However, Loving Tans don't do so well being self-employed (because they have a difficult time managing all the details of a business) unless they have a detail-oriented person (like a Physical, Mental or Sensitive Tan) to handle the paperwork. Typical Loving Tan occupations include the following:

- Artist
- Childcare worker
- City planner or developer
- Computer programmer
- Consultant
- Customer service representative
- Designer
- Gardener
- Graphic artist
- Groundskeeper
- Health practitioner
- Interior designer/decorator
- Interpreter
- Landscaper
- Language interpreter
- Salesperson
- Teacher
- Tour guide
- Travel agent